

Sam Adams is a prize-winning comedian based in Denver, Colorado. He's also a motivational public speaker, an award-winning sports journalist and television commercial actor.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Sam is a former sports journalist who was a Class of 2019 inductee in the prestigious Denver Press Club's Hall of Fame. He turned to a full-time career as a standup comedian after leaving the 2009 Great American Comedy Festival as its most unique winner still to date. Sam won the festival's amateur division and, after being asked to replace an ill contestant, finished second in the professional division.

Sam's energetic act is 100 percent profanity-free and built on humor-filled observations from his everyday life encounters. During the summer of 2018, the "True Color" video clip from Sam's Dry Bar Comedy special (titled 'Incoherently True') went viral, with more than 10 million Facebook views in less than 72 hours. Since, the video clip has amassed more than 31 million Facebook views.
